MISS Foundation Fills Top Seat

Since 1996, the MISS Foundation has lived up to our MISSION of C.A.R.E.S.:
Counseling, advocacy, research, education, and support.

We have been an unstoppable force in helping to change the way our culture mourns infant and child death. We have helped countless numbers of grieving families and the professionals who serve them.

We reach across socioeconomic, religious, ethnic, regional, linguistic, and political barriers to bring diverse groups together to mourn, remember, honor, and cope with life's worst tragedy.

The MISS Foundation has also struggled the past few years, since the economic decline and thus declining donations and resources, to maintain its secure presence in communities around the world. And, with such a tremendous impact on communities around the world, the MISS Foundation has grown beyond its capacity to be a solely volunteer-run organization. Simply, we don't have enough volunteer hours to keep up with the amassing number of families who need help.

We are, thus, thrilled to offer the position of Executive Director of the MISS Foundation to Kathy Sandler, MSW.

Ms. Sandler has been a loyal and powerful volunteer at the MISS Foundation for seven years, and, in 2008 won the Phoenix Award, the highest honor of the MISS Foundation. Ms. Sandler and Dr. Joanne Cacciatore met through their mutual friend, Dr. Elisabeth Kubler-Ross.

Beginning January 1, 2011, Ms Sandler will take the reigns alongside Dr. Cacciatore, and a new board of directors, in helping to build the infrastructure of the MISS Foundation so that we may grow our overwhelmingly successful programs and expand our outreach around the world.

We ask for your support of our organization through end-of-year giving, please, so that we may flourish as the only organization that offers families all that we do: Counseling, advocacy, research, education, and support during life's darkest hours...
